- PMO Compliance stands for "Project Management Office" What does a compliance PMO do? The role of a compliance PMO is to ensure projects meet all the targets set in the planning stages. Compliance generally falls into three categories, namely:
  - Budget - is the project working within spending limits, reporting the spending and hours worked correctly, and submitting requests for extra resources in the right way?
  - Deadlines - are milestones consistently being hit and are deliverables being monitored regularly to ensure they're on track?
  - Quality - what testing is being carried out to confirm the deliverables are fit for purpose and is feedback being sought from stakeholders at each point of delivery? To make sure these tasks are met, a compliance PMO needs to gather data and produce reports. There will be reports that project managers fill in and other monitoring data from online systems. These need to be collated into dashboards and reports so that the project team and the C-suite can see the projects progressing successfully.
- Being first of its kind e-Learning portal, Skill की Class will also submit a detailed report to the department including Prime Minister Office of India, Department of Education and some others.
